Since you have expressed your interest in our Institution inquiring about our courses and have already received our catalogue, we are glad to inform you that, as in previous years, Master Institute of Roerich Museum is planning to conduct a six weeks' summer course. Music, Painting, and Drawing, Art Photography, and a course on Modern and Oriental Dancing Course, based on the Weight and Relaxation Method in addition to a normal course in Piano Pedagogy for piano teachers will be given.

The value of these courses in the past has been amply proven by the experience of numerous students who have taken them. From the above - mentioned courses you will notice that some of them are essentially cultural, others are of practical value in professional or business life. The courses are adapted to the individual requirements and the instruction is thorough and personal.

Among the advantages of studying during the summer session is the opportunity of having access to the Roerich Museum comprising over one thousand paintings of the internationally-known Master, Nicholas Roerich, as well as the use of the library of the Roerich Museum with the possibility of doing research work.

Master Institute is ideally located on Riverside Drive overlooking the Hudson River, in a twenty-nine story building equipped with every convenience for students - spacious study rooms, solarium from which is seen the panorama of New York, and an attractive dining room where meals are served at moderate rates.

We hope that you will be able to avail yourself of the opportunity of enrolling for our Summer Session in the department chosen by you, as well as to bring the knowledge of this Summer Session to those who might be interested in pursuing their work and widening their outlook of art and culture.
