

The Silver Wheel

1509 Connecticut Ave.

Washington, D. C.

May 20 at Noon.

Announced over W. J. S. V. Columbia Broad Casting

Tho the social season is almost over one would never believe it, for the art exhibition which opened Sunday at The Silver Wheel Shop at 1509 Connecticut Ave. has been thronged with Diplomatic and social Washington pouring into this attractive saloon. The Interior, done in whitewith murals of grey, executed by that intensely clever Auriel Bessemer, makes a superb background for the exhibit itself. The drawings and paintings are the works of the Alumni of The Master Institute of the Roerich Museum which as you know brought or at least introduced new methods in art - which have made both the school and its pupils internationally famous. The exhibition will continue until the 13 th of June and I am sure that none of you will want to miss this interesting - show which is the talk of smart Washington . And we would also advise you to look at the charming things which are being executed in mirror and glass this season, most everything needed in a mordern home comes in glass, or so it seems, and that old adageabout living in a glass house is no long er a trite phrase - it is a charming actuality.
