The Chamber Opera Guild of Roerich Museum has been organized with the aim of furthering the appreciation of Chamber Opera through the performances of operatic works by the classic and modern composers, thus affording to young artists the opportunity of appearance before the public.

Through these performances it is hoped to assist in the recognition of the creative efforts of American Composers, as well as to spread the appreciation of the lesser known classics which would not find their place on the larger operatic stages. Performances will be presented in English, with the view of promoting the appreciation of opera in the United States.

As its first public presentation, the Chamber Opera Guild will present two one-act operas: "Beggar's Love," by Frank Patterson, American composer, which was selected from manuscripts submitted in a Nationwide Contest of American Operas; also "La Serva Padrona," by Pergolesi.

The performances will be given in collaboration with the Stagecraft, Dramatic, Orchestral and Vocal Departments of the Master Institute of Roerich Museum.

All proceeds from the Opera performances go to the Educational Fund of the Master Institute of Roerich Museum
